Choosing your Referencing Style in EndNote Desktop

In your EndNote desktop library, open the style manager (Edit > Output styles > Open Style Manager) or use the down arrow next to the style name and choose ‘Select Another Style’.

You will see a pop up box like the one to the left. You can scroll down to find your chosen style, or to quickly find it, type in a word in the search box (e.g. Harvard at Newcastle) and press the return key. You should then be able to find your style. Click on the style name and select ‘Choose’. This style will now be available in your style manager when you use EndNote. And when you use EndNote online you should also be able to use this style.
